Keep the Kidneys Well

Health is Worth Saving, and Some People Know How to Save It.

Many Norway people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Norway citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Joseph A. Wood, Summer street, Norway, Me., says: "I had been annoyed by backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I tried many remedies, but got no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Two boxes helped me in every way. I also wish to say that Doan's Kidney Pills cured my little son of kidney weakness and improved his health. You may continue publishing the statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

According to a report presented by the official chemist of the American Institute of Metals, it is claimed that an alloy of cobalt and tin of about sixty to sixty is especially resistant to acids, but, owing to the brittleness of the alloy, it has little commercial value. Experiments have, however, tended to indicate that admixtures of this alloy with other metals—such, for instance, as copper—produce a series of alloys which may be turned, forged and machined and have a high degree of chemical resistance.—American Machinist.

HEATER FOR MOTORCARS.

Simple Device For Utilizing Part of the Exhaust Gas.

To utilize some of the heat of the waste products has been the object of quite a number of persons who have sought to increase the comforts of winter motoring, but not all of them have been successful, says the Scientific American. A new type of heater that but recently has made its appearance has a number of commendable features, first and foremost of which is that it may be easily attached by almost any one who is handy with tools in a short space of time.

In its simplest aspect the heater is nothing more than a miniature radiator, such as commonly is used for hot air, steam and hot water heating. Part of the exhaust gas is led from the exhaust pipe through the radiator, whence it escapes through a relief valve to the outer air. It is in the manner of admitting the heated exhaust products to the radiator, however, that much of the novelty exists. Instead of a plain valve in the exhaust pipe there is a rotor—operated by the pressure of the exhaust gas, which in turn opens a small disk valve that admits part of the products of combustion to the radiator; thus only a small part of the gases pass into the radiator, the exact amount being governed by a small lever which in turn is connected to the disk valve so that the opening may be varied.

As the heating surface is large and the tubing is fairly light only a comparatively short time need elapse before the heat is felt by the occupant of the car.

To attach the device it is merely necessary to section out a small piece of the exhaust pipe and substitute for it the combined rotor and valve that go with the heater. In the construction two heaters are used, one in the front and one in the rear of the car, though only one need be used, and it can be placed wherever the fancy of the owner dictates.

THE DIAMOND DRILL.

Aids the Prospector in Determining Value of Borings.

The diamond drill consists of a line of hollow rods, screwed together in five or ten foot sections, rotated by an engine through shaft and gearing and fed forward either by a hydraulic cylinder and piston or by a screw feed. At the lower end of the rods is placed a bit, in which pieces of "black diamond" or carbon are set, which, as the rods are rotated, cut an annular hole in the rock, leaving a center piece of "core" undisturbed. Water is forced through the rods to keep the diamonds cool and to wash away the cuttings of the bit. The essential feature of this method is the core or sections of rock which is formed by the hollow bit and rod as the drill advances. At intervals, usually after drilling ten feet, the rods are withdrawn by means of hoisting mechanism, bringing with them the rock core, which is caught and held by a self locking "core lifter." The core is then removed, the rods again lowered and the process repeated until the mineral body sought is found.

This method indicates to the prospector the exact depth of the ore body from the surface and the thickness and character of the vein when found as well as the nature of the material penetrated before reaching the vein. It is thus possible to estimate closely the cost of the development work, while the core of minerals furnishes accurate samples for assaying purposes. Of almost equal importance, if the mineral ore body is absent, the diamond drill indicates the fact, thus saving the cost of an exploratory shaft.

Isn't This Rough?

HEATER FOR MOTORCARS.

Simple Device For Utilizing Part of the Exhaust Gas.

To utilize some of the heat of the waste products has been the object of quite a number of persons who have sought to increase the comforts of winter motoring, but not all of them have been successful, says the Scientific American. A new type of heater that but recently has made its appearance has a number of commendable features, first and foremost of which is that it may be easily attached by almost any one who is handy with tools in a short space of time.

In its simplest aspect the heater is nothing more than a miniature radiator, such as commonly is used for hot air, steam and hot water heating. Part of the exhaust gas is led from the exhaust pipe through the radiator, whence it escapes through a relief vent to the outer air. It is in the manner of admitting the heated exhaust products to the radiator, however, that much of the novelty exists. Instead of a plain valve in the exhaust pipe there is a rotor, operated by the pressure of the exhaust gas, which in turn opens a small disk valve that admits part of the products of combustion to the radiator; thus only a small part of the gases pass into the radiator, the exact amount being governed by a small lever which in turn is connected to the disk valve so that the opening may be varied.

As the heating surface is large and the tubing is fairly light only a comparatively short time need elapse before the heat is felt by the occupant of the car.

To attach the device it is merely necessary to section out a small piece of the exhaust pipe and substitute for it the combined rotor and valve that go with the heater. In the construction two heaters are used, one in the front and one in the rear of the car, though only one need be used, and it can be placed wherever the fancy of the owner dictates.

THE DIAMOND DRILL.

Aids the Prospector in Determining Value of Borings.

The diamond drill consists of a line of hollow rods, screwed together in five or ten foot sections, rotated by an engine through shaft and gearing and fed forward either by a hydraulic cylinder and piston or by a screw feed. At the lower end of the rods is placed a bit, in which pieces of "black diamond" or carbon are set, which, as the rods are rotated, cut an annular hole in the rock, leaving a center piece or "core" undisturbed. Water is forced through the rods to keep the diamonds cool and to wash away the cuttings of the bit. The essential feature of this method is the core or sections of rock which is formed by the hollow bit and rod as the drill advances. At intervals, usually after drilling ten feet, the rods are withdrawn by means of hoisting mechanism, bringing with them the rock core, which is caught and held by a self locking "core lifter."

The core is then removed, the rods again lowered and the process repeated until the mineral body sought is found.

This method indicates to the prospector the exact depth of the ore body from the surface and the thickness and character of the vein when found as well as the nature of the material penetrated before reaching the vein.

It is thus possible to estimate closely the cost of the development work, while the core of minerals furnishes accurate samples for assaying purposes. Of almost equal importance, if the mineral ore body is absent the diamond drill indicates the fact, thus saving the cost of an exploratory shaft.—Engineering Magazine.

BOWSER, CYCLIST.

Our Hero Resolves to Become a Star Performer.

SETS OUT BRAVELY ENOUGH.

But In Spite of His Exhibition of Self Confidence Mrs. B. Has Misgivings,
For She Realizes That Even Mr. B.
Has His Limitations.

By M. QUAD.
[Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.]

ALL through the dinner hour Mr.
Bowser was very quiet, but his face wore that expression that comes to a man who has made up his mind to do or die.

"He's going to blow up the house,"
whispered the cook to herself.
"He always carries that look when he's after my scalp," thought the cat.
"Aren't you well this evening?" asked
Mrs. Bowser for the tenth time.
Mr. Bowser turned on her and said:
"No, Mrs. Bowser, I am not well—far from it!"

"But what's the matter?"
"I am gradually being tied up in knots for lack of exercise."

"But presently there'll come a big fall of snow and you can use the snow shovel!"

He regarded her for a moment with lofty contempt and then said:
"Mrs. Bowser, this is a winter month, but there is no snow on the ground. It is a calm night. It is a moonlight night. It is an ideal night."

"And we'll go to the theater!"
"I shall take an hour's exercise on the bike I have borrowed for the occasion."

"But—but it's winter," she protested.
"It's better to ride in the winter.
You thought I had given it up, but I was only waiting for bracing weather."

"WHO KICKED THAT HIND WHEEL?"
Two or three months ago I experimented a little with the wheel. I expect to become a crack rider within a week.

"You—you become a crack rider?"
"And why not?"
"The last time you were unconscious for an hour and in bed for three days.
You didn't seem to go."

Undaunted Spirit.
"Didn't seem to what?" he shouted
as he shored back from the table.
"If I didn't quite get the hang of the thing it wasn't my fault. No one can ride a bike right off. I expect a fall or two, but what of that? What I want is to harden this flesh down. In two weeks I'll be kicking up my heels like a boy."

"Twenty minutes later Mr. Bowser had the machine out on the highway.
He had an air of confidence about him which considerably puzzled Mrs. Bowser.

"You are not going to jump right on are you?" she asked.
"You bet I am!" he replied. "All the trouble with new beginners is being afraid of the machine. I'm going right into that saddle as if I had been there a thousand times before, and if you see a cloud of dust zipping down the road you can hold on to your hat with both hands. Here I go!"

He went. He put his foot on the step and made two hops and a jump.
And Mrs. Bowser saw a cloud of dust.
It didn't go zipping down the road, however, but remained right there at her feet. It was a cloud of dust raised by Mr. Bowser as the machine bucked him off and then fell upon him, and it was three or four minutes before he got up, with red face and flashing eyes, and said:

"I didn't expect to get the hang of it the first time, you know. Did it go down all of a sudden with me?"

"Very sudden."
"I guess I didn't find the pedals quick enough. Stand back a little and give me a show. Now, there's my foot, and here's two hops and—"

Further Humiliation.
Mr. Bowser didn't reach the saddle.
There was a wild hope in his heart that he would, but he rose just high enough to fall forward, face downward, and with a wild wabble the machine rolled him into the ditch.

"You didn't do it," said Mrs. Bowser as she advanced to help him up.
"Who kicked that hind wheel?" he demanded.

"No one. I wasn't within twenty feet of you. You'd better let me hold the wheel while you get on."

"Nay—here!" I've seen out to get on that wheel myself, and I'll do it or perish!"

"Mr. Bowser, you know you have short legs and are naturally clumsy."
"Short legs! Clumsy! Woman, get out of the road—get inside the gate!
You are hoping for me to keep on falling and perhaps break my neck, but you'll be disappointed. You keep inside the gate till you're called upon to interfere!"

Then Mr. Bowser examined the wheels. He took a long look at the handle bar, but discovered nothing wrong with it. The pedals seemed to have been hung on at the right place, and he could find no fault with the saddle. Mrs. Bowser stood watching him over his gate, but he pretended to be oblivious of her presence and drew a long breath and made ready for another try at it. It suddenly occurred to him that he didn't get in hope enough, and so he started out on a new plan. With his foot on the step he began hopping and bumping. His idea was to get a good headway and then rise like a bird, but at the fifth hop the machine took a shoot into the ditch, and there was another wrestling match, in which it came out on top.

The Last Straw.
"You see you can't do it," said Mrs.
Bowser as she went out and pulled the wheel off him. "You don't seem to hold the wheel right, and you hop on the sole of your foot."

Mr. Bowser arose and pointed to the open gate, and so strong was his emotion that it was a full half minute before he could say:

"You will oblige me by going into the house, Mrs. Bowser. Should I require your presence or feel the need of any more sarcasm I'll send you a postal card!"

She went, and when she had disappeared Mr. Bowser led the machine up and down the road a few times, patting the saddle in a fatherly way and humming a tune. By and by, after a quick glance at the house to see if Mrs. Bowser was looking, he made a sudden dash for the saddle. He got there. Just how he did it he will never be able to make out, but to his utter surprise he found himself there and his feet clawing about for the pedals. His first impression was that he was at least twenty feet above the earth; his second that he was all of forty. He had a dim idea that he was speeding along like a race horse, but it didn't last long.

Mr. Bowser's Finish.
When Mrs. Bowser reached him he was on one side of the road and the wheel on the other. Mr. Bowser had struck on his head and was looking into vacancy and whispering to himself. It was like a dream—some one lifting his head—his body being rolled about—a wagon coming up, and two men lugging him into the house.

He meant to charge Mrs. Bowser with hitting him with a fence rail—with shoving a crowbar between the spokes to upset him—with maliciously planning his death—but the words refused to come, and while he was wondering what was the matter he heard one of the men say:

"He'll come to after awhile and be all right again in a few days. Better tell him to ride a rail. He's no bird for the bike!"

DISCOVERY COMES AFTER 3000 YEARS

Buffalo House Takes the Taste
Out of Castor Oil.

Since the earliest days of medicine chemists have been trying to take the taste out of castor oil.

The secret has at last been discovered
by Spencer Kellogg & Sons of Buffalo, who are among the largest producers and refiners of vegetable oils in the world.
They have removed the castor oil taste, and smell, too, purifying the oil and making it better and more effective.
Nothing is added to it, nothing good takes out of it.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is tasteless in the true sense. Even children take it easily for all the nauseating effect is removed.

Sold now at all drug stores in 25c and 50c sizes. Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil by name, for there are several preparations of castor oil mixed and flavored, which are not tasteless and do not act as well.

The public is protected by the trade mark, a green-castor leaf, bearing the signature, "Kellogg's."

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., refiners of vegetable oils.

If You are Subject to Colds This Editorial will Interest You.

A Great Majority of People Get One or More Colds Every Season and It is of Vital Interest to All to Learn How to Avoid and Believe Colds Quickly, Since Colds are Said to be Contagious.

Some people think colds are only caught through exposure. This in return is contradicted by the fact that Arctic explorers are peculiarly free from colds. It is more generally accepted that colds are the result of civilized life, due to super-heated rooms and a very rapid change in temperature which causes the nerve centers to be depressed, and still more largely due to contagion—one member of a family imparting a cold to another by sneezing or coughing.

A cold means nothing if relieved quickly. That such a purpose may be accomplished, a quick aid to a cold is an essential. A remedy especially devised to relieve colds quickly is PERUNA.

PERUNA contains such ingredients that have an especially beneficial influence upon the inflamed mucous membranes and the quicker these mucous membranes are given the benefit of a remedy like PERUNA, the quicker the relief and the less contagion.

A neglected cold may become a serious menace to one's own life, and far worse, may endanger one's family.

We insure our homes against fire, our lives against death. Why should we not insure ourselves against colds if possible by having a medicine in the family chest that can be used at once?

PERUNA is a reliable household remedy for colds and should be in every home, for there should be a desire to combat a cold as quickly as possible.
This is enlightened hygiene.

People who are feeble and run down are more subject to colds than persons in normal health. Such persons need outdoor life and PERUNA to help build up a strong constitution. If you have a poor appetite that is often a warning that you probably need a tonic like Peruna for Peruna aids the digestive organs. When your appetite is fair and work and exercise do not quickly tire you, your susceptibility to colds diminishes very much.

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain PERUNA TABLETS.

FRYEBURG.
E. E. Hastings was in South Paris last week.

G. H. Harriman has been laid up a few days with the prevailing cold. All the schools closed, Monday, for Washington's birthday.

Mrs. E. G. Pife was confined to the house last week with a bilious attack. W. R. Tarbox, who has been ill, was in West Baldwin on business, Monday.

Work in the Piano factory has been a little slack of late owing to lack of orders.

Elmer Greeley and wife (Hattie Thome) are working at "The Argue Not".

Walter Mansfield is in the West in the interest of the Baxter's, selling next year's corn.

John Harriman is gaining, but his brother, Ernest, is now under the doctor's care.

Several Lovell people were in town, Thursday, coming to the drama and were welcome visitors.

Mrs. Arthur Lougee, who accompanied her mother, Mrs. Morrill to New York, returned last week.

Such severe weather has made it very hard to ward off illness and all who have escaped are very fortunate.

Capt. Hanson, who boarded at "The Oxford" with his wife and daughter several seasons, died in New Bedford, Mass., recently.

Two Drama's last week, one was Lovell talent, and the other the pupils of the Academy; both were very nicely rendered.

Graver Circle, Ladies' G. A. R., of which Mrs. Alden Charles, who recently died was a member, sent a beautiful floral emblem.

May Hastings has gained quite a little of late and her friends hope she will soon be able to get out or at least, when the "good old summer time" arrives.

Mrs. Alice G. Towle was ill, Sunday and Monday with pleurisy. Mrs. Jackson is able to be out but is not strong yet. She came very near having pneumonia.

Joseph Swari, who is to open a fruit and vegetable store on Main street in Kelly's Store, has rented Daniel Charles' upstairs room. He has a brother in Bridgton.

The many friends of John Locke of Portland, regret to learn of his serious illness. He married Alice Abbott, daughter of the late Henry Abbott. Bright's disease is feared.

Mrs. Alfred Poor visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keefe, a few days, recently. She has a very pleasant home in Yarmouth, where her husband has a barber's shop.

Carlos Dismore, well known in town, has been very ill at the Hospital at Togus, where he is spending the winter, but is some better at present. Sons of the ladies of the Circle G. A. R., sent him a box of delicacies last week that was greatly appreciated by Comrade Dismore.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Red Men have an apron sale, Friday, Feb. 27. Refreshments for sale at Red Men's Hall, Supper at Congregational Vestry, Thursday evening. Mrs. Zanna Peterson, Ina Sawtelle Eastman and Lillian Pike in charge. Food sale, Wednesday, by Pythian Sister's P. K. Hall.

Not much excitement over Town meeting. Very few want town office, and those few seem to want it all. Geo. O. Warren seems to be the most wanted man for Town Clerk. He is certainly liked, and book can always be seen, and George is always correct, agreeable and obliging. It is essential that great care be given to selection of School board, that is of the greatest importance. It seems a matter to be regretted, that some of the best fitted for these positions refuse to accept them.

CARD OF THANKS.
Georgia Foster passed to the Great Beyond, Jan. 14th. She was a great sufferer from heart trouble. Her mother, Mrs. Peter Wood, wishes to thank all the kind hearts who came forward to help her in her last sickness. Her mother feels that she was very much as she was an only child. She and her mother were greatly interested in Sunshine work. Almost the last word Georgia said was sewing on aprons for the L. S. S. Golden Rule branch sent a beautiful bouquet of pink to the funeral.

Abel's Rebellion

How "He Made Good"

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Abel Durham had lived for years at Miss Pollock's boarding house and had patiently eaten the dishes that were set before him till one Sunday morning he revolted at the usual corned beef hash or bacon and eggs. He declined to eat her breakfast and sought Miss Pollock and gave notice that he would leave. He gave, among other reasons for his doing so, that he was about to be married.

Anastasia Pollock's head went up proudly. Fire came to her blue eyes. "Biddy," she said smoothly, "ask Mrs. Jasper if she will have some more corned beef hash!"

Abel Durham pattered down the brownstone steps of his boarding place and wandered aimlessly to the corner, where he waited for a car. His eye glanced slyly back at Miss Pollock's comfortable abode, and he stifled a sigh as he thought of its many good qualities, its homelike atmosphere and its home cooked food, and to one who had been a dweller in boarding houses during twenty years of city life, Miss Pollock's house was a pleasant refuge. But the monotony of the daily meals jarred upon him.

Each day in the week brought its allotted bill of fare, and there was no wavering from this rule. As her mother had ordered so Miss Anastasia carried on the house when the mantle fell upon her delicate shoulders.

This rebellion of Abel Durham was the outcome of several years of hopeful waiting for a change. Now he had not only given up his pleasant front room with the open fireplace, but he had told Miss Pollock he was to be married. How to make good this last reckless statement was puzzling the usually tranquil mind of the bachelor.

Abel Durham had not courted a girl for twenty years, not since he had left Telford village to enter business life in the great city.

"I will do it. I've got to make good," said Abel, with a sickly smile, as he boarded his car and rode to the railroad station. He bought a ticket for Telford and took his place in the stuffy, cindery coach that the railroad company considered good enough for the little single track Telford branch.

"Whoooo-eeee-e-e-e!" shrieked the engine as it wound away among the hills toward Telford.

Abel Durham looked out of the window and noted the familiar landmarks as the train rumbled through villages, over bridges or skirted the river bank in its progress. Suddenly a large mountain overshadowed them.

"Telford mountain!" murmured Abel without joy in his tones.

Since he had left the home of his boyhood all his family had moved to the far west, so that Abel was not going home to any near relatives. Perhaps there were distant cousins, but it might be they were dead or had forgotten him.

Abel Durham was bound on a singular errand.

He was going back to Telford to try to resurrect one of his old romances. He had told Miss Pollock he was to be married, and married he must be. His busy life had left no room for sentiment, and so he performed must fall back upon the half finished romances of his young manhood. There was pretty Amy Cox. She had given him a pink rose when he left Telford and told him she would wait for him—a hundred years if necessary!

Somewhat Abel had forgotten all about Amy in the rush of business. They had corresponded for awhile, and now he couldn't remember who had been the first to stop writing.

"Telford!" called the brakeman. The station stage backed down, and the driver yelled to him: "Stage! All—yup!"

Abel climbed into the long, swaying vehicle and rattled around in its emptiness as the big white horses bore them through the village streets at a better speed.

"Where you want to go?" called the driver from a corner of his mouth.

"Philander Cox's place," replied Abel, turning red.

"Up mountain way," muttered the man as if for his own information. The stage whirled perilously around the corner by the postoffice and rattled along the road that ran by the river bank. At last they began to climb the mountain toward a white house perched among the oaks.

"Whoa—yup!" called the driver, and Abel paid his fare and dismounted. The stage rattled down the mountain, and Abel went into the yard of the familiar place.

The same boxwood bordered the paths, and the same roses bloomed, and the same bees tumbled in and out of the blossoms. He felt a boy once more as he settled his necktie and started toward the house.

A pretty girl sitting on the steps of the house arose as he approached.

Abel Durham stood with his hat in his hand, his eyes staring at this reincarnation of Amy Cox's youth. How had Amy contrived to remain so youthful? He was suddenly conscious of the bald spot on his head and of the crow's feet about his fine eyes. At Miss Pollock's table and among his business associates he never thought of his age.

A ROOMY AND IMPOSING DUPLEX.

Design 785, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

An ideal building for a corner lot. Two individual front porches—no chance for an argument between tenants. The plan can be reversed to fit any corner. Both front and rear stairways entirely individual. Having no connection in any way with each other, the apartments are separated as distinctly as if they were built on separate lots. This kind of a building makes a splendid investment and pays owner a good percentage on the money invested. Size, 28 feet wide and 48 feet deep over the main part. Finished throughout in gum or southern cypress. Birch or maple floors in both stories. Full basement, each story 9 feet. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $5,200.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will supply a copy of Saxton's book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains about 250 up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

In the face of Amy's perpetual youth he felt like Rip Van Winkle.

"Amy, I don't believe you remember me," He smiled tentatively at her.

The girl smiled vaguely and edged in toward the front door. "Ma!" she called.

"Well?" cried an impatient voice from within.

"Here's—here's an old gentleman to see somebody," she ended crudely and then fled in the direction of the gate, where a young man in a red necktie was suddenly waiting to take her to drive in a shining new buggy.

"Old gentleman!" Abel Durham turned crimson at the opprobrious term.

The front door opened and a faded little woman came out drying her hands on her gingham apron. She had obviously just concluded washing the Sunday dinner dishes, and she sank into a nearest rocking chair with a weary sigh, removing her apron and tossing it aside all in one swift gesture.

"Howdy do?" she queried without interest as she surveyed Abel's immaculate figure. "Won't you sit down a spell? Pa's over to Westwood today. I guess you're the new preacher from North Telford, ain't you?"

Abel Durham stared at her. This faded little gray haired woman was the mother of the girl he had taken for Amy. So this must be Amy. Amy must be married! A chill feeling took possession of his well ordered being, and he suddenly thought of his room at Miss Pollock's, and a great fear assailed him that Miss Anastasia might rent the room to some one else before he returned.

"I'm not the new preacher," he said, with a sickly smile. "I'm Abel Durham. Don't you remember me?"

The woman sat up and peered down at him from Amy Cox's beautiful blue eyes. "Abel Durham!" she gasped at last. "To think of your catching me like this! I'd never have known you—y've grown so fat!"

"Fat?" echoed Abel helplessly. She laughed with amusement. "Don't you know it? My don't you remember how thin you used to be? The boys used to call you 'Skinny' Durham. I remember once Jake Fenlow called you that and you struck out at him and you had an awful fight. You licked him, too, although you was such a skinny little fellow! You couldn't lick him now; you're too fat!" laughed Amy.

"I couldn't, eh? What has become of Jake Fenlow?" demanded Abel fiercely.

"I married him," said Amy calmly. There was a long silence.

"I've got to be going," said Abel suddenly. "I was just looking around the mountain, and I thought I'd drop in and see you."

"Glad to see you. Come in whenever you're passing by," invited Mrs. Fenlow ambiguously. "Jamie, what are you up to in there?" She darted inside the house, and Abel Durham took advantage of her absence to depart.

THE WHOLE BODY NEEDS PURE BLOOD

It Means Healthy Nutrition—Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes It.

The bones, the muscles, and all the organs of the body depend for their strength and tone and healthy action on pure blood.

If the blood is very impure, the bones become diseased; the muscles become enfeebled, the step loses its elasticity, and there is inability to perform the usual amount of labor. The skin loses its clearness, and pimples, blotches and other eruptions appear.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. It is positively unequalled in the treatment of scrofula and other humors, catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, that tired feeling and general debility. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a pure, safe and effective remedy. There is no other medicine like it. Be sure to get Hood's and get it today.

NORWAY CENTER.
Ernest Watson, Mrs. Merton Wyman and two small children are the latest chicken-pox victims.

The circle was not as well attended as usual last week, on account of the cold weather and bad travelling.

The young people of the Christian Endeavor enjoyed a sociable at the church vestry last Saturday evening.

Annie Whitehouse was at home from Business College to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Whitehouse.

PIGEON HILL.
Saturday noon, Feb. 21st, at the home of her son, Geo. Adams, occurred the death of Mrs. Louisa Adams. She was 83 years of age and active to within a year of her death. She leaves two sons, George, with whom she was living and Winslow of Norway, and a circle of loving friends to mourn her loss. Funeral, Tuesday, at 12 o'clock from her late home on Pigeon Hill. Final interment at Falmouth. Rev. A. J. Verrill, officiating.

WELCHVILLE.
Mrs. Charles Gannon is in Westbrook visiting with friends.

Mrs. A. D. Harlow from Somerville Mass., is visiting with her sister, Mrs. B. N. Dudley.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Howard from Harrison Hill are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyington from Melrose, Mass., visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Staples.

Evading Responsibility.
Two London cabbies were glaring at each other.

"Aw, wot's the matter with you?" demanded one.

"Nothin' the matter with me, you bloomin' idiot."

"You gave me a nasty look," persisted the first.

"Me? Why, you certainly 'ave a nasty look, but I didn't give it to you, so 'elp me!"—Chicago News.

A Return Favor.
"I wish you would wear that blue gown of yours to the Bilkins reception," said Mr. Chawker.

"Very well, dear," answered Mrs. Chawker. "And there is something I wish you would wear to the reception for my sake."

"And what is that?"
"A pleasant look on your face."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Reassurance.
Lawyer—You have an excellent case, sir.

Client—But a friend of mine said he had an exactly similar case, and you were the lawyer on the other side, and you beat him.

WINDOW VENTILATOR.

Deflecting Apparatus Sends Incoming Air to Top of Room.

An apparatus for changing the direction of a current of air with the minimum loss in the velocity of the same has been recently designed and patented.

In this deflector a series of curved vanes are placed at equal distances from each other, presenting their edges to the current and dividing the same into independent strata. Each independent portion impinges against a vane and after being slightly deflected proceeds to the end of the projected passage without further loss of energy due to any impingement of the balance of the current. The energy actually lost, neglecting skin friction, is due to the impingement of the strata against the lower portions of the vanes.

An application of the above principle is made for windows. With this device the wind is deflected to a vertical current inside of the room with a loss of only 13.3 per cent of its velocity. The energy of this vertical current is sufficient to deflect a horizontal current entering the window over the deflector, the amount of such deflection and the resulting direction being dependent on the relative strength of the two currents. It is therefore possible to have the lower sash raised above the deflector and still have the incoming air traveling to the upper portion of the room without disturbing papers on desks or tables. This feature, unique for this deflector, is very important during the summer months. During winter the sash can be adjusted to admit only the amount of air desired, and as this air will travel vertically at 87.7 per cent of the velocity of the outside wind it will mix with the heated air at the top of the room instead of producing cold currents at the lower levels.

Recent investigations by well known scientists show that the movement of air in a closed room is almost as important as the entrance of fresh air. This deflector accomplishes both results with the minimum amount of cold air, owing to the high velocity of entrance.

CONCERNING CARNOTITE.

Rare Mineral From Which Radium is Mainly Derived.

Carnotite, the principal source of radio-active substances, is an ore of vanadium and uranium, named for a president of France. Its principal occurrence in the United States is in Colorado, where much ore is mined and milled. Some carnotite occurs also in Utah.

Carnotite is probably an alteration product of pitchblende and is the mineral whence the major portion of our radium supply is derived, says a writer in the Engineering and Mining Journal. It was discovered by Charles Poulton, late in 1887 or early in 1888, in the Roc creek (or possibly La Sal creek) district of western Montrose county, Colo. In the beginning small lots were shipped to a little wooden shed near the west end of Champa street, Denver, where the ore was treated by Poulton and E. Cumenge, both chemists, who were associated with M. Voilleque in the rare metal business in Denver.

Poulton traveled extensively through Colorado and acquired a pitchblende deposit in Gilpin county, which he sold to the Roman Catholic Bishop Machibout of Denver. The latter died in 1890 and bequeathed it to his successor, Bishop Matz, who sold it in 1912 to Yale college for $10,000. Poulton was interested also in the tungsten deposits of Boulder county.

The uranium-vanadium mineral was named carnotite in 1888 by Mr. Poulton, at the suggestion of Mr. Cumenge, in honor of Marie Francois Sadi Carnot, president of France.

Alloy Superior to Silver.

The inventor of the well known McAdamite alloy has recently produced a new alloy of silver and aluminum which has been named argental. This alloy has been produced to compete with silver, and it is claimed that for many industrial uses it is actually superior to silver. It can be cast, rolled, spun, drawn into wire and given a good polish and has greater strength than either silver or aluminum. The alloy resembles silver in appearance, is not affected by nitric acid and does not tarnish on exposure to the atmosphere. As its specific gravity is only one-third of silver it may be expected to find uses in the manufacture of tableware specialties and the like. American Machinist.

We Promise You Relief from All Stomach Troubles Or Your Money Back

We honestly believe we have the best remedy in the world for indigestion and dyspepsia. We urge you to try it at our risk. If it doesn't relieve you—as we feel sure it will—we'll give back your money without a word. You know us—your family druggist. You know we wouldn't dare recommend anything we didn't know about, nor dare to break a promise. Therefore, when we recommend any remedy it is because we believe it to be better than any other to relieve the ailment for which it is made, and when we prove our faith in it and our sincerity toward you by promising to give back your money if it doesn't relieve you and in every way satisfy you, you have no possible excuse for doubt or hesitation.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Delays Are Dangerous

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

You Risk No Money

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is yours, and we want you to have it.

Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores—the World's Greatest Drug Stores. In convenient boxes—three sizes: 25c, 50c, $1.00

Don't Grow Bald

Use Parisian Sage.
If your hair is getting thin, losing its natural color, or has that matted, lifeless and scraggy appearance, the reason is evident—dandruff and failure to keep the hair roots properly nourished. Parisian Sage applied daily for a week and then occasionally as all that is needed. It removes dandruff with one application; almost immediately stops falling hair and itching head; invigorates the scalp and makes dull, stringy hair soft, abundant and radiant with life. Equally good for men, women or children—every one needs it.
A large bottle of this delightful hair tonic can be had from Noyes' Drug Store, or any drug counter for 50 cents. You will surely like Parisian Sage. There is no other "Just as good"—Try it now.

LOCAL WOMEN AGREE WITH STAGE BEAUTIES

Of all women in the world, probably those of the stage are most particular about their personal appearance, and especially in the care of the hair; and when such leading stage beauties as Ethel Barrymore, Elsie Ferguson, Natalie Alf, Louise Dresser, Rose Coghlan, Laurette Taylor and many others are so enthusiastic about Harmony Hair Beautifier as to write in praise of it, that is certainly evidence that it does just what they say it does—that is, beautifies the hair. There are many women right in this town, and men, too, who regard it as indispensable, because it makes the hair glossy and more silky, easier to dress and make stay in place. Sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous relief to the itching and burning of the scalp, and penetrates to every part of the hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornate glass bottles, with sprinker tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us.

The Oldest Book.
Egyptologists of the Berlin school think it necessary to warn their pupils that every line of the Book of the Dead is "corrupt." By this they mean that the grammatical forms in which it is written seldom fit into the hard and fast lines within which, as did Procrustes, they seek to confine the ancient Egyptian language. But when all is said the Book of the Dead is the oldest book in the world, and as we have copies of it in one form or another dating from somewhere about 3300 B. C. to within a few centuries of our era it can hardly be wondered at that its expressions sometimes defy grammatical rules made in Germany.—London Athenaeum.

Perils of Pearl Diving.
Though diving bells were taken to Ceylon in 1825 for use in the pearl fishery, neither they nor the European diving dress can compete with the naked native. Arab divers use a sort of horn clip with which to close their nostrils when under water, but the Ceylon diver holds his nostrils with his hand only until such time as he reaches the sea bottom. The average time that a Tappin remains below is between fifty and sixty seconds, while an Arab remains under water, between eighty and ninety seconds. Occasionally men, either from greed or over-estimation of their strength, collapse at the bottom and are brought up dead.

How to Darn Table Linen.
To darn table linen stretch the article, smooth and tight in embroidery hoops. Remove the presser foot from the sewing machine, loosen the tension, slip the hoops under the needle and without turning the hoops sew back and forth until the hole is neatly filled. Then turn the hoops and proceed in the same manner across the stitching already put in. The result is gratifying, and only a few moments are required for the work.
To patch a tablecloth take a piece of linen the size of the hole and coat it with white soap to make it stiff. Trim the hole evenly. Place the patch under the hole after the edges have been soaped and trimmed. Place under the presser foot of the machine and sew the patch backward and forward. If very fine thread, 100 or 150 is used, it will scarcely show. Sew on both sides, and when the tablecloth is laundered and pressed you will find that you have a very neat patch.

How to Make Buttons Stay On.
"At last I have found a way to prevent the laundress from tearing buttons from underwear," said a mother recently. "I button all garments up securely and turn them wrong side out and tell her not to turn them. They come clean as easily as before, and I haven't lost a button from the wringer since I tried it. This is an amicable adjustment of a long standing source of friction."

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

How to Marry on $75 a Month.

THIS is the story of a young couple who are to be married in a short time. Both have sensible and economical ideas. The man's salary is $75 a month. He is young, hard working, sober and in a good business, with prospects of "raises."

The girl is pretty, sensible and well trained. She knows just what income they are going to have and that it must cover everything. This is the way these young folks are planning to use the income, and before the knot is tied they are going to try to find a place to live where such conditions are possible.

Their rent must not exceed 20 per cent of their income, or $15 a month. Their table expenses must be covered by 30 per cent of their money, or $22.50 a month (that is only $5.50 a week for two people). Fuel, light and a wash-woman's wage must not be more than 10 per cent, or $7.50 a month. Their clothing must be kept within 15 per cent, or $11.25 a month (a little more than $5 a month for each).

Then there will be 25 per cent of their income left, or $18.75 a month, which must cover such items as insurance, church dues, savings, books or "higher life," as the things that lift us above our daily monotony are called.

If these young people can keep within these apportionments they can be happy and free from immediate worry. If the income is raised, half of the raise ought to be put aside for an emergency fund.

You see, in the division of the $75 a month there is no room for extravagance. Everything must be carefully bought. All divisions of salary, of course, like this one just quoted, are theoretical. Naturally the smaller the salary the larger the proportion that will be spent for food. But the percentages are offered as scientific signposts that point in the right direction.
Young married people who work together and plan their income, who share alike the burden and the joys of life, grow very near and close to one another. So much can be done, so much borne, when love is the guiding star. The young man whistles as he goes out to work, even if the breakfast has not been very big, and the young wife sings as she washes up the breakfast dishes and plans her bills of fare with a careful thought for the cost.

NEW METHODS.

How to Clean Window Shades by Latest Method.

If the window shades are soiled at the bottom and if they are sufficiently long, cut them off, make a new hem and rebang. The neat appearance will repay you for the trouble. If they are not long enough to permit of this treatment turn the shades top to bottom. In stitching in the hem fold the hem carefully and slip the stick into place before stitching. Then there is no danger of cracking the holland.

Sometimes the paper which has been used for lining the cake pan sticks to the cake. Warm the loaf slightly; then it may be the more easily removed.

A few seeded raisins or chopped dates added to the nut or apple salad is well worth while.

If the red tiles of the vestibule become dull, try rubbing them with lemon dipped in salt. After half an hour wash in the usual way. The tiles will be perceptibly brightened.

If the white of egg is used in mixing a mustard plaster there is little or no danger of blistering the most sensitive skin.

Set Right.
"I thought you told me Jenks was an actor." "I told you nothing of the sort." "You certainly did." "I certainly did not. I told you he was on the stage."—Baltimore American.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year.

Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing, and the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary trouble which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and those who many people say soon feel and strengthen the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Elmhurst, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who request it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50c. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure and mention this paper. 8-9

WEST PARIS.

Dr. F. E. Wheeler was in Portland, Thursday and Friday.

Oxford County Pomona Grange will be held here next week, Tuesday.

Jennie Mann of Norway is spending a few days with her brother, H. S. Mann, and family.

This long hard cold spell has been rather trying to water pipes. Several have lost their water.

Mrs. I. L. Bowker of Portland visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Tuell, a few days last week.

Rev. L. W. Raymond attended the funeral of a relative in Auburn, last week and was gone two days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Plummer of South Paris were the guests, Wednesday, of Mrs. Plummer's sister, Mrs. E. T. Barrows.

Mrs. F. H. Hill went to Norway to her brother's, Edward Packard's, and was with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Packard during her last days of sickness and death, and the family all attended the funeral on Thursday.

The P. of H. of the West Paris Grange have laid a nice hardwood floor in the kitchen and dining room of their new hall, this week. When the hall was built only the audience hall and stage was finished and furnished and the first floor of kitchen and dining room have been finished in "odd jobs." There are a goodly number of carpenters among the members and there were enough on the first two days to nearly complete the large dining room floor.

Esther Gilman of Presque Isle, a W. C. T. U. State organizer and reader, spoke at the Free Baptist church last Sunday evening to a good sized and expected audience. She was expected to speak here on Tuesday night but this week and the chance of late in the week prevented many from attending who wished to hear her. She is a very talented young lady in her chosen profession and her readings were excellent and instructive. She had the pleasure of pinning a white ribbon bow on a new member for the West Paris W. C. T. U. A ladies' chorus sang three selections and a class of twelve children sang two of their school songs, "Washington Song" and "Old Glory." She visited the schools Monday afternoon, which was much enjoyed.

In December last the Baptist people formed a United Baptist Missionary society with the following officers:

Pres.—Mrs. C. E. Flavio.
V. Pres.—Mrs. Z. E. Berry.
Sec.—Mrs. Marilla M. Coburn.
Treas.—Mrs. Columbia Dunham.
Program Com.—Mrs. Anna W. Whit, Mrs. May E. Emery, Lila M. Cole.

They hold monthly meetings on the third Friday afternoon of each month with Mrs. Dunham. In January the subject was the Chapel Car and a Cruise Work which was very interesting. Some present had never heard of that line of missionary work. Last week Friday the third meeting was held and the subject was the centenary of the life of Adoniram Judson, the first American Foreign Missionary. Each member is expected to bring an I. H. L. note for roll call.

There was a good large meeting, some from the North Paris church, who live outside the village being present.

Charlie Bowker, chairman of the Paris selectmen, says item on page 68. of the town report should read $235.00 instead of $355.00 for his services. The change of one figure makes a difference of one hundred dollars.

LOCKE'S MILLS.

Mrs. Lola Foster is ill at this writing. The Crole met this week at Mrs. C. H. Swan's.

A number from here attended the dance at East Bethel, Saturday.

Dayton Whitman is gaining from his recent operation for appendicitis.

Agnes Campbell was a week-end guest of her parents at Mechanic Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howe of Hallowell are visiting Mr. Howe's sister, Mrs. W. B. Rand.

WEST SUMNER.

Mrs. Anna Kimball is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Villa West.

A baked bean dinner will be served by the Baptist society, Monday, March 2.

Mrs. Alice Mallett's little daughter is ill with the prevailing epidemic, cold.

Wednesday, Clinton Bisbee went to Boston, where he will remain for a short time.

The Ladies' Aid society will give a masquerade ball, Wednesday evening, March 4.

On account of the shortage of water work has stopped at Chandler & Putnam's mill.

Mrs. Edith Thomas is in Buckfield, nursing Mrs. Ella Braden, who is critically ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Newell recently spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Ella Bonney, who is confined to the house by illness.

Leroy Bisbee has been spending a few days with his father, Sylvester Bisbee. He has finished work for the Stowell Spool Co., Dixfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ford and son, have returned from Portland where Mr. Ford has been for medical treatment. He is somewhat better.

In December last the Baptist people formed a United Baptist Missionary society with the following officers:

Pres.—Mrs. Carrie R. Flavin.
V. Pres.—Wm. Z. Berry.
Sec.—Mrs. Marilla M. Coburn.
Treas.—Mrs. Columbia Dunham.
Program Com.—Mrs. Anna W. Whit, Mrs. May E. Emery, Lila M. Cole.

They hold monthly meetings on the third Friday afternoon of each month with Mrs. Dunham. In January the subject was the Chapel Car and Cruiser Work which was very interesting. Some present had never heard of that line of missionary work. Last week Friday the third meeting was held and the subject was the centenary of the life of Adoniram Judson, the first American Foreign Missionary. Each member is expected to bring an I. H. L. note for roll call. There was a good large meeting, some from the North Paris church, who live outside the village being present.

Charlie Bowker, chairman of the Paris selectmen, says item on page 68. of the town report should read $235.00 instead of $335.00 for his services. The change of one figure makes a difference of one hundred dollars.
